

ABSTRACTClosure

The invention relates to a closure for a bottle. The closure is dispersible in a washing medium, wherein the closure comprises a first component and a second component. Each component defines a seal enclosing a volume within the bottle. The dispersion of each component is activated by a different means.